

Sixteenth District, WARREN CARVER, Hope Mills.

This gentleman was born August 13, 1843, in the shade of a cotton factory, the Rockfish, now Hope Mills, No. 1, Cumberland County. He is a Republican. He married Miss Mary Jessup, of Cumberland County. Two of his great-grandfathers were signers of the Cumberland Declaration of Independence. Served in the Confederate army, First North Carolina Volunteers. Mr. Carver is an advocate of woman's rights to serve on school committees. Was elected to represent his district by a very large majority. This district is composed of Cumberland only.

Seventeenth District, A. J. DALBY, Oxford.

A. J. Dalby was born in Granville County, January 4, 1844. He is a member in full fellowship of the Missionary Baptist Church. Was educated in the academies of the country and debarred from a collegiate education on account of the war. He was a Confederate soldier, in the Sixth North Carolina Regiment, and surrendered at Appomattox, Va., with Gen. R. E. Lee. Returned home to the farm in April, 1865, and accepted the conditions of the times, and went to work on the farm, with the determination to help his father recover from losses on account of the war. The following year he engaged in the manufacturing of tobacco. In the winter of 1866-'67 he took a course in medicine at the Medical College of Richmond, Va. He has been twice married, and has one child.

When the Alliance began to organize he was among the first to join the Order, and has attended most of the State and national meetings. He has been secretary of the Granville County Alliance ever since its organization. He was a delegate to the first Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, meeting at St. Louis, that formulated the Alliance demands, now the Populist platform. Was appointed one of three as the executive committee by the chairman of the National People's Party to organize that party in North Carolina. At the organization of the People's Party, held in Raleigh, May, 1891, he was elected a delegate-at-large to the People's Party Convention at Omaha, Neb., in 1891, which he attended. Was also a delegate to the People's Party State convention that nominated the State ticket in 1891.

He was elected Senator of the Seventeenth Senatorial District in 1894, and is now boldly standing up for right and justice, and will do what he has promised his people, without fear or favor.
